Brief description

Most classes have a class monitor for recess or break times. In preparation for the heating season, it should be considered whether or not, for example, these class monitors could also be energy managers who make sure that the room is ventilated properly during breaks, all windows are closed, and the light is off at the end of the day. The role of the teacher should also be thought out, especially in rooms for specialized instruction.

Procedure

- ✓ Make arrangements with the school director
- ✓ Present brainstorming results to the teaching staff
- ✓ Pass a binding resolution as an “energy decree”.
- ✓ Appoint or, even better, elect the energy manager at the start of the school year.
- ✓ Publicise the measures by posting

What else is important?

The energy managers can work as multipliers for the energy saving team. All the information on the topic of energy can be spread to all classes in the school in this manner.
